CIA Developers Extends Application Deadline; Includes TRDA Scholarship

Award offers $10,000 in free rent and six week business workshop for Brevard's top entrepreneur.

MELBOURNE, Fla., March 13, 2009 – CIA Developers announced it will extend its application deadline for the Gary R. Cunningham Award in an effort to solicit more involvement. In addition to $10,000 in free rent at a CIA Developers facility, the award recipient will also receive a scholarship to the Technological Research and Development Authority's six week business workshop, Roadmap to Success.

"This is a 'no strings attached,' golden opportunity for a start-up company," said Robert 'Buz' Anderson, CEO of CIA Developers. "Our goal is to award an entrepreneur and generate some economic stimulus for the area."

The award recently received an added incentive with the addition of the TRDA scholarship. The Roadmap to Success series offers a combination of six, two-hour workshops over a six week period. Held at the Business Innovation Center, the workshops use a unique and rigorous methodology, refined over ten years, to help enhance a company's potential for success. They are designed to help a company build strategies for growth with profitability.

"We are extremely pleased to add the Road Map to Success workshop from TRDA, and want to make sure everyone has a chance to participate." says Rick Kendust, Marketing and Leasing Coordinator for CIA Developers. "We are still on schedule to announce a winner in May."

The new deadline for applications is Friday, April 10th, 2009. All applicants are asked to complete the application form online along with an executive summary. Details are available on CIA's website, www.cia-developers.com.
